

Need to Raise Doctoral Student Stipends for to Compete for Good Students Resolution

10-5-16

American University's doctoral stipends are traditionally low compared to our peer institutions and competitors, and have not increased in several years. Given the need to successfully recruit doctoral students to maintain the university's hard fought status as a strong research university, the Faculty Senate advocates giving priority consideration to this matter in planning for the FY2017-19 American University budget.
